Commission Sanctions Former Securities Salesman for Unregistered Sales in Investment Program Funding Real Estate Loans

PHOENIX, AZ—The Arizona Corporation Commission today ordered a former securities salesman to pay an administrative penalty for offering and selling an unregistered investment program that funded real estate mortgage loans.

The Commission ordered Robert W. Carfagno, Sr. of Tucson to pay a $3,000 penalty to the state of Arizona for his securities violations, which equals the commissions Carfagno received from the investment proceeds. The Commission found that, while not registered as an Arizona securities salesman, Carfagno sold the investment program called First Position Commercial Mortgages to a married couple who invested a total of $150,000.

The Commission found that Carfagno offered and sold the First Position Commercial Mortgages program in the form of notes, investment contracts, and real property investment contracts for investor money that in turn funded commercial real estate mortgage loans.

In settling this matter, Carfagno neither admits nor denies the Commission's findings, but agrees to the entry of the consent order.
